Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a magnetic disk drive device which reads and writes data from/to a magnetic disk. 2. Description of the Related Art In a magnetic disk drive device, a magnetic head slider is provided on a suspension at a tip of a suspension arm which is swingable in a rotational direction about a rotation axis. A coil is wound to the tip end of the suspension arm. Data is written and read from and from a magnetic disk by swinging the magnetic head slider while causing the tip end of the suspension arm to come into contact with the magnetic disk (contact start/stop). Further, in a magnetic disk drive device that uses a ramp load method, the magnetic disk is loaded and unloaded by moving a ramp member formed of a metal plate or the like having an inclined surface to come into contact with a portion of the magnetic disk for loading/unloading, on the tip end of the suspension arm. A part of the tip end of the suspension arm is constructed
