A: The reason for this is that your.deb package installs files into a folder in $HOME/.local/share that doesn't have read permissions. Try setting those permissions on the following folder: You can do this on the GUI via the Properties dialog of Nautilus You can do this on the command line with the following command: sudo chmod -R a+r $HOME/.local/share If that doesn't fix the problem, then it's something else you need to fix. For example, it's possible your.deb package was corrupted when it was downloaded, so you should try downloading it again, and see if it's the same thing again. Q: How to use different connection string for a console app in different environments I want to deploy 2 different versions of my web application. For development and testing I use "DEV" and for production "STG" Where in the web.config should I place the different connection string? Can someone help me? I get it working with a Web.config like this:
