Donald Trump slammed Hillary Clinton for using a private email account during her time as the US Secretary of State, saying that her actions created a national security risk, The Independent reports. The Republican presidential candidate accused the Democratic frontrunner of creating a “national security problem”. “Hillary Clinton should be ashamed of herself,” he said, adding “she’s creating a national security problem for our country.” “I guess she’s afraid of something,” he said. “If she [Clinton] used a private email, that’s just a total non-issue,” he added. The real Democrat party - which has a good chance of securing the White House this year - would prefer to talk about flag burning. Former US Army Engineer

Officer and Marine, Patrick Chase, recently made headlines when he was arrested for burning a flag near the White House gates. They wouldn't know what to do without us. We really truly are a gift to this country. #AmericanValues pic.twitter.com/xec7psr2Dy — Donald Trump (@realDonaldTrump) November 7, 2015 His anti-American acts sparked outrage from the country's Republican party, and many of Trump's supporters. The businessman responded quickly, saying he will ask his campaign to take down the video if it's found to be "out of line." A spokesperson for the Trump campaign said he "has zero tolerance for abuse of Flag Code" and that the candidate's campaign will "take the necessary action" if the flag-burning video does not disappear,
