I am new to both the Spring Data API and the mongodb driver. I am following the tutorial in the Spring Data documents. The tutorial includes a specific example where they use the NetBeans mongo database manager, which is working fine. Then they explain how to create a RESTful web service using Spring MVC to query the data. It works fine with data from the mongo document. The problem comes when I try to use my local mongo instance. When I launch the web service as explained in the tutorial, it always fails with the following message SEVERE: Servlet.service() for servlet [spring] in context with path [] threw exception [Request processing failed;
