
MioPocket 4.0 Release 68.zip

If you really think you need a GPS, I know I never really put one on my Magellan, but if you find a cheap GPS, with Windows CE, to install then you can start trying to get it working with MioPocket. Good luck! I did read about an ATV8300 and even a Previa Pro, but they all seem discontinued. Good luck! You can get 1407 (I think that is what it is called) cheap on eBay for $45. That's probably the cheapest GPS on the shelf. Actually I was looking at an offer on topgear.com the other day for $99. You can try to get an old GPS to work with MioPocket and get a newer GPS for $100. If you decide to go the eBay route, I think the 1407 is a tough one. Had a look at that one yourself? Ok so I found a 1428 cheap off eBay, and another Magellan RoadMate 1430, and would like to try and get them running with MioPocket 4.0. I will do this tomorrow and then post an update. For now, I just wanted to say I want to thank all the people who have supported me! This has been a while in coming, and I will try and be more patient for it next time, or another one of those comes up. Thanks all! P.S. I have a new XM-750 and a TLD-506. Those are still up to date and I've already tried them. I figured I'd try MioPocket since it's not "fragmented" like the others are. I'm really surprised that it isn't working. User, are you using Windows 8? MioPocket 4 will not work with Windows 8 for obvious reasons (same file names). Make sure you are using version 4 and not version 5. Everything is backwards compatible, but 5 requires Windows 8, and 4 needs Windows 7. Trial and error. Run the gpsupdate.exe file. If the GPS update worked, you will need to re-install miopocket and dump the miopocket.txt backup file. In the worst case, run another GPS update. If it did not work, you will have to do a hard reset.
