The new Speed Dial workspace also provides best-in-class speed and quality of work, and includes new features such as more control over the workflow with scheduled adjustments, a new 'Tweak' feature for complex controls, and a new 'Auto Mask' feature. Another big deal was the shift to a new, more stable native GPU computing framework within Photoshop. To make this possible, Adobe updated its entire application to a new native technology, OpenGL 3.3, and changed the underlying API to Open GL ES 3.0, the latest version of graphics processing APIs for mobile platforms. For the first time in the history of Photoshop, Adobe has created a new feature set directly from users' requests. The first two months of the year had seen companies release their first public APIs to address the many problems with the legacy Photoshop 3D feature, but most were re-implementations or new re-implementations of existing artwork. Adobe Photoshop productivity improvements and modding were released as separate updates for Photoshop, which includes Mesh Objects (separate application), Warp Stabilizer (separate application), Lens Correction (separate application), and Content Aware Fill. The updates offer faster performance, improved corrective tools, and a new editing workflow. Adobe has rolled out two updates. The first is what is claimed to be industry-leading post-processing support for images, including a new compression system in Adobe Photoshop CC 2019 that reduces file sizes by as much as 80 percent, automatic recompression of any image after editing, as well as improved compression and decompression of still and motion imagery.
