Apache & RewriteRule in xampp I am trying to create a new page using the Apache with xampp. I want to do it on an existing.php file, so I did this: RewriteEngine on RewriteCond %{REQUEST_FILENAME}!-f RewriteCond %{REQUEST_FILENAME}!-d RewriteRule (.*) index.php?url=$1 [PT,L,QSA] I then put a! before the first line because it wasn't working. Now I can still get to.php files. Instead of just index.php?url=the-url-here I get the below results: for any.php, I get: index.php?url=index.php&url2=index.php2 How do I get rid of this? What file should be edited to make it so that with.php files I only get: index.php?url=the-url-here A: You don't need to put the! before the first line. If the RewriteRule is applied, it should not use the previous RewriteCond and RewriteRule.

Nurses' knowledge regarding prevention and identification of delirium: a survey of general practitioners and nurses in an internal medico-surgical unit. Delirium is a common occurrence in internal medicine and geriatric medicine and nursing home nurses. It is a serious complication that is associated with increased morbidity and mortality, extended hospital stays and increase health services cost. Delirium is frequently under-diagnosed by nurses and general practitioners. To assess how well nurses' know about prevention and identification of delirium. Descriptive, cross-sectional survey. A questionnaire was distributed by a medical student to 43 nurses working in an internal medicine ward at a French teaching hospital and to 45 nurses working at a university teaching hospital in Paris, France. A further sub-analysis was performed on final year nurses (n = 15), in order to assess the role nurses play in delirium prevention and to identify the limits of their knowledge. Nurses reported they were unsure or insufficiently informed regarding the prevention and identification of delirium. The final year graduate nurses felt that nurses' roles did not exceed the nurse-patient relationship. There is a gap between good practice and assessment of knowledge concerning delirium among nurses. Before prescribing care, and regardless of nurses' educational background or experience, we should know: how often nurses identify delirium, what are the most common causes of delirium, what are their most common indices, and how can we promptly confirm a diagnosis of delirium? Efforts should be made to improve nurses' knowledge about delirium in order to enhance the quality of care they provide.
